Scene Description: Morning Report from *The Lion King

Simba and Mufasa are looking out over the Pridelands when Zazu flies up and greets them. Zazu begins to share with Mufasa his morning report of all the happenings in the Pridelands. Meanwhile, Simba is distracted by a passing bug and tries to pounce on it. Mufasa stops him and gives him tips on how to pounce. Mufasa asks Zazu to turn around while he delivers his report so that Mufasa can continue teaching Simba how to pounce, using Zazu as his target. When he realizes what is going on, Zazu is embarrassed, but follows his king's command. Simba sneaks up on Zazu and pounces on top of him. Mufasa and Simba laugh as Mufasa congratulates his son on a job well done. A mole pops up from the ground to alert Zazu and Mufasa that hyenas are in the Pridelands. Mufasa dashes off to attend to the situation and Zazu is left to look after Simba.
